School Opening.

The coming term of the Lees Collegiate Institute will open September 4th, with Prof. M. L. Girton, A. M., again as principal of the faculty. A special feature of the coming term will be the manual training and domestic science departments, that will resume operations, beginning with the first term. The equipment in both departments is complete. The manual training department will be fitted out with modern tools and machinery, the best that money can buy. This branch of the school work will meet with hearty approval on the part of parents having children entering school, as no department of school work is better suited to the growth and development of the boy, both mentally and physically. In the other branches of school work every effort will be made to promote efficiency and to secure the best results possible.

Miss Sue E. Reese, of Asheville, N. C., will have charge of the primary department.

Prof. Vitz, a graduate of the Manual Training School of Louisville, will have charge of the manual training department. He comes most highly recommended as a teacher and as a Christian gentleman of high character.

The department of music will be in charge of Miss Margaret E. Denham, who has studied under Prof. Schull of the Conservatory of London, England, E. R. Spear, graduate of music, Berlin, Germany, and Prof. George W. Brandon, of Hartford, Connecticut. She has had a number of years of successful experience as teacher of voice, piano and choir director.

The domestic science department will be in charge of Miss Lena Ryland, a graduate of Tusculum College, Tennessee.

Miss A. J. Girton will continue in charge of the home.

It is to be noted that the people of Jackson and Breathitt County and of the surrounding country will be able to give liberal and undivided patronage.

Green Shepherd, of Lambrie, was in Jackson Tuesday to make arrangements with the merchants handling school books here for the exchange of the old books now in the hands of the children of his locality.

At a drunken brawl, on Fryley's Creek, near here, in Lee county, on last Sunday morning, two men were killed and two wounded. The dead are James Creech and James Thomas and the wounded are Preston Kash and John Creech.

Kash was accidentally shot, and John Creech was shot while trying to arrest John Miller, Dan Cundiff and a Duncell boy, who did the shooting. John Creech and Kash are not seriously wounded. The Creech boys had been on bad terms with Cundiff, Duncell and Miller for some time. Miller, who is from Breathitt county, was arrested and placed in the Beattyville jail, but the others, who reside in Lee county, have taken to the woods. Why will our boys keep on drinking, after so many are killed while under the influence of liquor. Look not upon the ways of the wicked, when it is red in the blood.

Misses Eliza and Dora Bowling visited their cousin Miss Tilda Turner, a few days ago.

He is 87 years old and can get around like a two-year-old. He has 10 living children, 120 grandchildren and 86 great grandchildren, the majority all living in Knott county.

A Grim Tragedy.

is daily enacted in thousands of homes, as Death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when coughs or colds are properly treated the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Oakland, Ind., writes "My wife had the consumption and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption coughs and colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. CANOE.

Rev. William J. Amwood and your correspondent preached Saturday and Sunday. Large and seemingly interested congregations. Our boys manifested no signs of "tiger blood."

Young men, lay down your pistols, quit "tiger juice" drinking, keep no snuffly associations, obey the law, come to the front, stand up for the right, become learned and virtuous, be wise, love God and serve Him and be happy. Girls, if the boys will perfectly and wickedly, let them "pass by on the other side."

Roasting Ears, Cucumbers, Tomatoes, Beans, Cabbage and other garden truck for sale by Mrs. Sallie M. Barnett, on the Heights. Orders left at THE NEWS office will receive attention.

George C. Taulbee, formerly of Morgan county, but recently in the army service of the United States as captain of the constabulary in the Philippine Islands, has taken up the study of law in the office of J. C. Bach.

At the Republican County Committee meeting held here last Saturday, J. B. McLin was elected chairman and Kelly Kash secretary. These are good selections. They are both young men and will want to build up a record for themselves.

James L. Moore began his school at the forks of Cane Creek last Monday with an enrollment of about 45. Prof. Moore has probably taught longer in the free schools than any other teacher in this county, having been in the service about forty years.

Dr. T. O. Meredith, of Burgin, was here during the week as the guest of Jo. S. Head. He is looking over our town with a view of building a hospital here. We think our people should give him all the encouragement possible, as this is a much needed institution.

Miss America Back began teaching the public school on Stray Branch last Monday. This is one of the largest districts in the county outside of Jackson. Miss Back taught there last year with entire satisfaction to her patrons, as is evidenced by the fact that she was their unanimous choice for the school this year.

We are sorry to note the death of Miss Louise Caldwell's father, who died at his home at Burdick, a Taylor county, last Saturday. Miss Caldwell is remembered by the people of Jackson as having been a member of the college faculty last year and her many friends are extending heartfelt sympathy to her in her sad bereavement.

The Jackson baseball team is planning to go to West Liberty to play the boys of Morgan county on their own soil. The Jackson team has met with continued success heretofore in games with neighboring towns and we now serve notice on the Morgan boys not to be surprised if defeated. A large crowd from Jackson will accompany the team.

Three Killed in Wolfe County.

On Holly Creek, in Wolfe county, last Saturday evening, while Willie and Manford Smith were going home they were fired on from a barn and both instantly killed. Their father, Franklin Smith, on hearing the shooting came to their assistance, but before he got to them he was shot in the face. He started to run and was shot in the back some four or five times. He died before any one got to him. Scott McQuinn and John Lane were accused of the killing. They surrendered to Sheriff T. G. Stamper and were taken to jail at Campton but have not yet had their examining trial. The remains of the murdered men were buried in the family burying ground, near Simpson, in this county, last Sunday evening.

He Defeated the Machine Gang.

In Leslie's Magazine for June is a sketch of Judge Lindsey, of Denver. The writer tells of certain actions of Judge Lindsey in the interest of honesty that brought down the wrath of the political machine. He was up for re-election for County Judge and the machine gang swore vengeance. The newspapers exposed the plan to defeat him. Next day at a packed convention, dominated by the public utility corporations of the city, there was a dramatic scene. The long-suffering people revolted. They saw their own delegates yielding to the tug of the popular will. The bosses tried to drift the nomination to a committee. The people would have none of it. When a speaker referred by implication to Lindsey as the "boy judge" the audience went wild. The convention was stampeded. Ben Lindsey was made by acclamation the nominee of the party to which he did not belong. When the cheering mob had quieted down, the chairman introduced him. "Judge Lindsey, an honest man."

That same afternoon the Populists and Prohibitionists nominated him and finally his own party nominated him "amid howls and hisses" it is said; but still they believed he stood for the honest enforcement of the laws, and the party machine had to have his strength for their ticket and not against it.

James L. Moore began his school at the forks of Cane Creek last Monday with an enrollment of about 45. Prof. Moore has probably taught longer in the free schools than any other teacher in this county, having been in the service about forty years.

Dr. T. O. Meredith, of Burgin, was here during the week as the guest of Jo. S. Head. He is looking over our town with a view of building a hospital here. We think our people should give him all the encouragement possible, as this is a much needed institution.

The Death Roll.

Mrs. Elvira Little died at her home on Meeting House Branch on last Monday night of dropsy. She had been sick for a long time and her death was not unexpected. She was the widow of Jere Little and daughter of Wm. M. Combs. She leaves several children. Her remains were buried in the Little grave yard, just below town, on Tuesday, the funeral services being conducted by the Rev. W. H. Setzer, of the Baptist church.

James Napier Corrects a False Report.

James Napier, of Grapevine, was here Monday. He says that there is no truth in the report circulated some time ago that he took a watch from the grave of his father, and that the report was started by some worthless enemies of his. He says that he is able to prove the falsity of the statements by the best men in his neighborhood. He also says that the watch was not a gold one, but was what is called a miner's watch, and was not worth more than $2. He can furnish proof that his father's grave has been unharmed since his burial.

The School Book Hold-Up.

The new school book law, which compels all the patrons of the schools of our county to buy a complete set of new books, which many educators say are not as good as the old ones, as they are published by the same company at a cheaper price, but cheaper quality, is working a great hardship on our people. The exchange feature is a hoax, as very few of the old books are acceptable by the company for exchange. With the school book hold-up and the exorbitant rate of our county taxation, it looks like our people have greater burdens than they are able to bear.

Three Killed in Wolfe County.

On Holly Creek, in Wolfe county, last Saturday evening, while Willie and Manford Smith were going home they were fired on from a barn and both instantly killed. Their father, Franklin Smith, on hearing the shooting came to their assistance, but before he got to them he was shot in the face. He started to run and was shot in the back some four or five times. He died before any one got to him. Scott McQuinn and John Lane were accused of the killing. They surrendered to Sheriff J. G. Stamper and were taken to jail at Campton but have not yet had their examining trial. The remains of the murdered men were buried in the family burying ground, near Simpson, in this county, last Sunday evening.

He Defeated the Machine Gang.

In Leslie's Magazine for June is a sketch of Judge Lindsey, of Denver. The writer tells of certain actions of Judge Lindsey in the interest of honesty that brought down the wrath of the political machine. He was up for election for County Judge and the machine gang swore vengeance. The newspapers exposed the plan to defeat him. Next day at a packed convention, dominated by the public utility corporations of the city, there was a dramatic scene. The long-suffering people revolted. They saw their own delegates yielding to the tug of the popular will. The bosses tried to drift the nomination to a committee. The people would have none of it. When a speaker referred by implication to Lindsey as the "boy's judge" the audience went wild. The convention was stamped. Ben Lindsey was made by acclamation the nominee of the party to which he did not belong. When the cheering mob had quieted down, the chairman introduced him: "Judge Lindsey, an honest man."

That same afternoon the Populists and Prohibitionists nominated him and finally his own party nominated him "amid howls and hisses" it is said; but still they nominated him. The people believed he stood for the honest enforcement of the laws, and the party machine had to have his strength for their ticket and not against it.

James Napier Corrects a False Report.

James Napier, of Grapevine, was here Monday. He says that there is no truth in the report circulated some time ago that he took a watch from the grave of his father, and that the report was started by some worthless enemies of his. He says that he is able to prove the falsity of the statements by the best men in his neighborhood. He also says that the watch was not a gold one, but was what is called a miner's watch, and was not worth more than $2. He can furnish proof that his father's grave has been unharmed since his burial.

The School Book Hold-Up.

The new school book law, which compels all the patrons of the schools of our county to buy a complete set of new books, which many educators say are not as good as the old ones, as they are published by the same company at a cheaper price, but cheaper quality, is working a great hardship on our people. The exchange feature is a hoax, as very few of the old books are acceptable by the company for exchange. With the school book hold-up and the exorbitant rate of our county taxation, it looks like our people have greater burdens than they are able to bear.

"Well," said he very seriously, turning to his desk, that came up to his chin as he sat beside it, "go and write me an article about rats."

"Would you advise?" I started to say, when he interrupted me.

"The man that gives advice is a bigger fool than the man that takes it," he leered impatiently. "Go and do your best."

Before he had given me this injunction he had dipped his pen and begun to write hurriedly. If I had known him longer I should have known that while he had been talking to me that tireless mind of his had summoned him to its service. I went out in high spirits and sat down a moment on one of the benches in the little park near by to think it all over. He was going to measure my judgment, my skill as a writer, my resources. "Rats," I said to myself thoughtfully. I had read much about them. They infested the ships, they overran the wharves, they traversed the sewers. An inspiration came to me. I started for the water front, asking in my way every block or two. Near the East river I met a policeman—a big, husky, good hearted Irishman.

"Can you tell me," I said, "who can give me information about rats?"

"Rats?" he repeated. "What d'ye want t' know about them?"

"Everything," I said. "They've just given me a job on the New York Tribune."

"He smiled good naturedly. He had looked through me at a glance.

"Just say 'Tribune,'" he said. "Ye don't have t' say 'New York Tribune' here. Come along w' me."

He took me to a dozen or more of the dock masters.

"Give 'im a lift, my hearty," he said to the first of them. "He's a green hand."

I have never forgotten the kindness of that Irishman, whom I came to know well in good time. Remembering that day and others, I always greeted him with a hearty "God bless the Irish!" every time I passed him, and he would answer, "Amen, an' save yer riverance."

He did not leave me until I was on my way home loaded with fact and fable and good dialect with a savor of the sea in it.

Hope and Uncle Eb were sitting together in his room when I returned. "Guess I've got a job," I said, trying to be very cool about it.

"A job?" said Hope eagerly as she rose. "Where?"

"With Mr. Horace Greeley?" I answered, my voice betraying my excitement.

"Jerusalem!" said Uncle Eb. "Is it possible?"

"That's grand!" said Hope. "Tell us about it."

Then I told them of my interview with the great editor and of what I had done since.

"Ye done wonderful!" said Uncle Eb, and Hope showed quite as much pleasure in her own sweet way.

I was for going to my room and beginning to write at once, but Hope said it was time to be getting ready for dinner.

When we came down at half after 6 we were presented to our host and the guests of the evening—handsome men and women in full dress—and young Mr. Livingston was among them. I felt rather cheap in my frock coat, although I had thought it grand enough for anybody on the day of my graduation. Dinner announced, the gentlemen rose and offered escort to the ladies, and Hope and Mrs. Fuller relieved our embarrassment by conducting us to our seats—women are so deft in those little difficulties.

The dinner was not more formal than that of every evening in the Fuller home—for its master was a rich man of some refinement of taste—and not at all comparable to the splendid hospitality one may see every day at the table of a modern millionaire. But it did seem very wonderful to us, then, with its fine-mannered servants, its flowers, its abundant silver. Hope had written much to her mother of the details of deportment at John Fuller's table, and Elizabeth had delicately intimated to us the things we ought to know. We behaved well. I have since been told, although we got credit for poorer appetites than we possessed. Uncle Eb took no chances and refused everything that had a look of mystery and a suggestion of peril, dropping a droll remark here and there to ripple of amusement over the table.

John Trumbull sat opposite me, and even then I felt a curious interest in him—a big, full bearded man, quite six feet tall, his skin and eyes dark, his hair iron gray, his voice deep like David's. I could not get over the impression that I had seen him before—a feeling I have had often since men I could never possibly have met. No word came out of his firm mouth until he was addressed, and then all in hearing listened to the little he had to say. It was never more than some very simple remark. In his face and form and voice there was abundant heraldry of rugged power and oxlike vitality.

I have seen a bronze head of Daniel Webster, which, with a full beard and an ample covering of gray hair, would have given one a fairly perfect idea of the look of John Trumbull. Imagine it on a tall and powerful body, and let it speak with a voice that has in it the deep and musical vibration one may hear in the booming of an ox, and you shall see as perfectly as my feeble words can help you to do this remarkable man who must hereafter play before you his part compared to which mine is as the prattle of a child—in this drama of God's truth.

"You have not heard," said Mrs. Fuller, addressing me, "how Mr. Trumbull saved Hope's life."

"Saved her life?" I exclaimed.

"Saved her life," she repeated. "There isn't a doubt of it. We never sent word of it for fear it would give you all needless worry. It was a day

John Trumbull sat opposite me, and even then I felt a curious interest in him—a big, full bearded man, quite six feet tall, his skin and eyes dark, his hair iron gray, his voice deep like David's. I could not get over the impression that I had seen him before—a feeling I have had often since men I could never possibly have met. No word came out of his firm mouth until he was addressed, and then all in hearing listened to the little he had to say. It was never more than some very simple remark. In his face and form and voice there was abundant heraldry of rugged power and oxlike vitality.

I have seen a bronze head of Daniel Webster, which, with a full beard and an ample covering of gray hair, would have given one a fairly perfect idea of the look of John Trumbull. Imagine it on a tall and powerful body, and let it speak with a voice that has in it the deep and musical vibration one may hear in the booming of an ox, and you shall see as perfectly as my feeble words can help you to do this remarkable man who must hereafter play before you his part compared to which mine is as the prattle of a child—in this drama of God's truth.

"You have not heard," said Mrs. Fuller, addressing me, "how Mr. Trumbull saved Hope's life."

"Saved her life?" I exclaimed.

"Saved her life," she repeated. "There isn't a doubt of it. We never sent word of it for fear it would give you all needless worry. It was a day

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Child Not Expected to Live from One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. DeJoy, of Agnewville, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another."

"I happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle she was well." This remedy is for sale by The Jackson Drug Co.

"Do Not Limit Your Ability." Poverty and failure are self invited. The disaster people dread often comes to them. Worry and anxiety enfeeble their force of mind and so blunt their creative and productive faculties that they are unable to exercise them properly. Fear of failure or lack of faith in one's ability is one of the most potent causes of failure. Many people of splendid powers have attained only mediocre success, and some are total failures, because they set bounds to their achievement, beyond which they did not allow themselves to think that they could pass. They put limitations to their ability; they cast stumbling blocks in their way by aiming only at mediocrity or predicting failure for themselves, talking their wares down instead of up, disparaging their business and belittling their powers.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

The pills that act as a tonic, and not as a drastic purge, are Dr. Williams' Little Early Risers. They cure headache, constipation, biliousness, etc. Early Risers are small, easy to take and easy to act—a safe pill, Mack Hamilton, hotel clerk at Valley City, N. D., says: "Two bottles of these Famous Little Pills cured me of chronic constipation." Good for either children or adults. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says: "For years I have used Little Early Risers Pills in my family. No better pill can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc." (than these famous pills. Scores of testimonials prove their worth. Sold by M. S. Crain.

The Wedding Cake. The custom of having a special cake at weddings was introduced into England by the Romans. This cake, or rather, biscuit, signified fruitfulness, hospitality and prosperity. The rice that was showered upon a bride had a similar meaning. For many centuries after the Romans left the custom was to break the biscuit over the bride's head, and then the fragments were picked up and piled before her for distribution to her friends. At the restoration Charles II. returned with a small army of French cooks, who speedily converted the ancient biscuit into a delicious piece of confectionery, laced it with sugar and gradually adorned it with emblematical devices, till it towered into the amazing structure which the luxury of later times has developed.—London Chronicle.

When you want a pleasant laxative that is easy to take and certain to act, use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Jackson Drug Co.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about time and money expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars in outlay later on. It is the same with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. If cost but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by The Jackson Drug Company.

His Cottage His Castle. The right of every Englishman to consider his cottage as his castle was never but once questioned, and that was by a London magistrate, who was presiding in an action for trespass.

"My client," said the barrister, in making his plea, "is a poor man—he lives in a hovel, and this miserable dwelling is in a town and dilapidated state—but still, thank God, the laborer's cottage, however ruinous its plight, is still his sanctuary, and his castle. Yes, the winds may enter it, and the rains may enter it, but the king cannot enter it."

"What? Not the reigning king?" asked the judge lovingly.

Indigestion Cured. There is no case of Indigestion, Dyspepsia or Stomach trouble that will not yield to the digestive and strengthening influence of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. This remedy takes the strain off the stomach by digesting what you eat and allowing it to rest until it grows strong again. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure affords quick and permanent relief from indigestion and all stomach troubles. It builds up the system and so purifies that disease can not attack and get a foothold as when in a weakened condition. The constantly increasing use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure by physicians of hospitals and general practice of itself tells how this wonderful modern discovery has proven to be the greatest digestant for the alleviation of a suffering humanity. Its cures of both children and adults grow larger day by day. Sold by M. S. Crain.
